FOR SEA AND SHORE.

Fashion's Place In The

There are certain modes that can be as amusing and fantastic as you please, and yet preserve individuality and a certain amount of restraint, writes the Hon, Mrs. C. W. Forester. The best bathing, suits are really very attractive this seasonin fact, sometimes they almost resemble "two-piece suits." Although generally in gay colouring, all beach clothes should be chosen with a due regard to type and environment.

Cotton, linen, jersey, and heavy tussore in plain and printed designs all have their place in the sun. Colours as a general rule should be somewhat' stronger than those which look best under trees. On the other hand, nothing surpasses the "chic" or becomingness of black, American women appreciably affect black and reverse it with colour. Many of the new jersey fabrics show these reversed effects.

Red and white linen and thick gay tussore are pleasing for British resorts. Jersey is always a good choice for hard swimmers. Green is a great favourite this season, but it is best, perhaps, for the ultrasunny fereign beaches.

For either home or foreign waters the costumes illustrated are effective and easy of attainment. Spotted black and yellow tussore is ! let into the suit of thick yellow tussore, worn with a large yellow hat. Butcher-blue linen trousers look well with a white jersey top embroidered in blue, white, and red. The swimming suit of emeraldgreen jersey is bound with black.

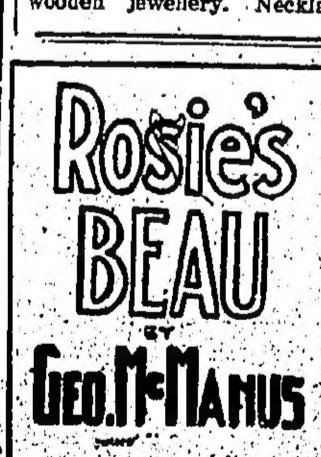

Some fabrics are rubberised outside—these form skirts over the bathing suit, which will be found delightful for the beach. A green and white suit of jersey has a loose jacket of green outside reversed with white, worn with a green jersey jumper and skirt. Over this is a green rubberised apongy fabric, lined white, that can be discarded as desired.

For the more fashionable resorts appearance is all-important. Black and pink linen pyjamas with a pink linen hat make a most becoming choice. The yoke shaping, on which the wide trousers are set, requires skilful fitting, for these newer suits for sun and sea are very lovely affairs. Trousers seem to get wider and wider. Some in thin fabrics are set in pleats from the knee, and suggest an attractive sort of divided skirt. Sometimes a felt is tied in scarf fashion. This is an extremely effective way with a swimming suit. A model in black jersey has a sashbelt of red tussore and a cap of the same; and when out of the water a patterns can be quite ovely. Some Crystal and every form of colourred and white spot.

FASHION MARTYRS.

High Heels Condemned by 200

Condemnation of modern footwear by medical men was reported by Mr. John Hoyle, the general secretary, at a conference of the Federation of Boot Trades Association at Hastings in mail week.

He said that more than 200 medical men had replied to a question-who will figure in the pageant on naire sent out by the federation.

Present-day lasts should be scrapped.

Ultra high heels should go. The perfect boot or shoe is one which has a good quality leather sole of fair thickness and leather upper and is made so that it allow of a proper support for the arch of the foot while permitting free movement of the toes.

Such a shoe would be responsible for lessening the ill effects upon national health, of rheumatism, chest troubles, heart disease, common colds, foot deformities, fallen arches, and flat feet.

One doctor said the habit among women of wearing high heels led to more foot trouble than all other causes combined. Another said it was very difficult to convince women and girls that thicker leather soles and suitably shaped boots and shoes were desirable, and | pink, and lingerie-blue will be the even if they were convinced it was impossible to make such convic- ing these over, however, for black, tions subordinate to the more patterned with subdued tints. powerful considerations of elegance and fashion.

Another doctor suggested that models or casts of feet from Greek statues, such as the Venus of Milo, giving size and shape would encourage less foolish women to buy shoes of correct shape and size.

To keep pies from becoming too juicy, roll a soda cracker up in fine pieces and sprinkle it on the lower crust before filling with the fruit.

Grit can be removed from the eye by applying a drop of castor oil. Or, bathe it well with warm witch hazel or pure olive oil.

To keep bread from sticking to the pan, heat the pan, then grease it and sprinkle dry meal in the bottom. The same applies to cake using flour instead of meal.

With these dresses will be worn wide-brimmed hats which droop to the shoulders at the side.

No matter what the colour of the dress may be, nearly every woman has chosen for the first day of the meeting a hat of red, brown, or black straw. There is a tremendous run on these three tones.

But the smartest women have too, a second hat.

It will tone with the frock just as the wide-brimmed one would do, but it will be small, close-fitting, and extremely chic, and it will boast a fold of tulle or an edging of lace straw protruding for about ar

DEMANDED FROM PASSENGERS.

Much inconvenience and dissatisfaction has been caused recently among home-going passengers to Cevlon by a shipping company's agents in Penang, who (Private exchange to all departments.) have refused to issued tickets, plantations. The Targether of Kanagawa Maru, Japanese str., unless a deposit of Rs. 150 or £10 was paid, save the Straits Echo.

This has only been enforced on third class and steerage passengers, and homegoing Ceylonese, most of whom prefer to travel by these classes have been subjected to the regulation.

Being exempted from passport. regulations, and knowing that as Ceylonese returning to Ceylon they were not subjected to any such laws, the rule has come as a shock to local Ceylonese.

On enquiry at the shipping company in question a representative of the Straits Echo was informed that they had enforced a regulation which had already been passed by the Ceylon Government in 1929.

The extract of the Ordinance in question reads as follows:-"Destitute passengers are not allowed to land unless a resident in Ceylon guarantees cost and charges not exceeding rupees 250. est being almost wholly devoted "Destitutes are other than those in possession of:--"Europeans Rs. 600 or £40. Natives Rs. 150 or £10. Failing these amounts, the emigrant must produce satisfactory evidence of his employment."

Mistake? The regulation in question is apparently an extract of an Immigration Ordinance passed by the Ceylon Government in 1929. Enquiries made at the other shipping companies agents in Penang reveal that the new rerulation did not exist elsewhere

OPPOSITION TO ITS CLOSING.

Manila, July 31. The people of Davao and resiagainst fire on the City of Hono- dents of neighbouring districts hilu at Honolulu, on May 25, who trade there are strongly opwere brought to-day by the posed to the suggestion of Secretary of Agriculture Alunan rela-The fire started from unknown tive to the closing of that port, causes about 4 p.m., and the says John R. McFie, Jr., wellvessel lurched over four hours known Manila attorney, who relater against the wharf and be- cently visited Mindanao in congan to sink. Tugs poured water nection with business pertaining into the blacing ship. Fire en- to his abaca and coconut planta-

> Mr. McFie found a very strong sentiment among the business men, the producers and all other elements against the closing of Davao as a port of entry for foreign vessels. As a former resident of that district, Mr. McFie has witnessed the tremendous development that has followed the opening of that port to foreign

> Closing the port would bring pack the days when the producers and the business men of Davao were at the mercy of interisland shipping, Mr. McFie states. Whereas formerly the producers had to pay as much as P3 per picul for bringing their abaca to Manila, they are now able to sell their produce at Manila prices right in Davac.

"Closing the port of Davao would simply be throttling all development in that district," he according to Mr. McFie, is the fact that the Filipino farmers and homestenders as well as American producers will suffer most. The Japanese cannot be hurt very much because they constitute only a small portion of the residents of that region, he be-

Mr. McFie states that according to the most reliable figures available, there are no more Japanese in Davao to-day than there were in 1920. What may appear as a Japanese colony is plantations. The Japanese settlers, he points out, have grouped themselves for protection, and while this section may appear Kueichow, British str., 1,220 tons, highly developed there are thousands of acres of good agricultural land which may be taken up by Filipinos and Americans. Mr. McFie attributes the rapid dustry of the Japanese who have invested millions in making that district rich. The Japanese do not hurt business in that region because they sell their products in the open markets to the highest bidder. Their abaca may be bought by any of the big Manila firms which can offer a good price, and only in certain instances when they believe they can get more money by selling to Japanese importers do they send their abaca to Japan.

The Davao Japanese are not in business very much, their interto agriculture. They bring in from Japan food and other necessities which are not procurable here, while on the other hand they consume large quantities of Philippine and American made

Mr. McFie believes the present land laws are sufficient guarantee that the Japanese will never be a menace in Davao. Whatever the Japanese are doing at the present time, they are apparently doing it within the law, he states.

One other feature of the situation there which impressed Mr. McFie is the unfairness of the present grading of abaca which, he says, works against the producer. Under the new rules abaca which formerly was classified as "E" grade now is rated as "F" grade, so that the producer loses

Mr. McFie believes that the present method of grading results in a "fictitious" raising of the Europeans are of the opinion that grades, because buyers in the it is "quite absurd" and that an United States and England get house grades of the big Manila ex-Mr. McFie said that when he

Mother and Three Young Children.

A mother and three children of ages ranging from five to 15 years were stowaways on board the Aberdeen and Commonwealth liner Moreton Bay, which arrived in Colombo from Fremantle.

The mother, Mrs. Emelia Bennett (38), was charged at the Joint Police. Court with having stowed away from . Fremantle to Colombo, and was warned and discharged. While her case was being heard in chambers, her children, Bettie (5), Leslie (13) and Edna (15), occupied the Press room. Mrs. Bennett and her three children will be provided with board and lodging at the Y.W.C.A., and will be sent back to Fremantle by the next steamer.

LOK MA CHAU FATALITY.

Evidence of Sergt. Madgwick.

IMPORTANT POINT NOT DIVULGED.

The inquiry into the Lok Ma Chau shooting affair of July 21 was opened before Mr. R. E. Lindsell and a Cororer's Jury at the of the station. Central Magistracy vesterday afternoon.

The subject of the inquiry was the circumstances surrounding pound. The wounded man saw and the time you got to the comthe death of Mrs. Dora Winifred Madgwick, wife of Sergeant C. S. Madgwick, officer in charge of the Police Station in the district, and Indian-Police Constable Chajja Singh, who died from bullet wounds received when another Indian P.C., Dalip Singh, ran amok, in the course of which he fired shots from a revolver, a rifle and a Lewis gun. After holding the station-single-handed for nine hours, the "amok" committed suicide by shooting himself.

At an early stage in the evidence of Sergeant Madgwick. the Coroner inquired about the personnel of the Lok Ma Chau Station. The Sergeant was about to answer the question when-Mr. T. H. King, Director of Criminal Intelligence, who watched the proceedings on behalf of the Police, interposed to say that he thought it would Save the time of the Court if a complete list of the personnel of the station, including families: servants and all persons quartered there were put in.

He had had the list prepared -neatly typewritten-and on the Coroner signifying his consent to this course being taken, Mr. King produced four copies from his file. One was handed up to the Coroner and the other three copies were handed to the Jurymen.

Scope of Enquiry. The jury comprised Mesars, A. L. Shields (foreman), C. A. da Roza and A. G. Coppin.

Before evidence was called, the Foreman of the jury asked: Your Worship, may we have statement again of the scope of the enquiry, of what we are to enquire into, which you gave us quite verbally the other day.

The Coroner: What I said was that the main purpose of this enquiry is to investigate the tragic affair at Lok Ma Chau on the 21st of last month. Your primary function is to ascertain the exact circumstances under which three nersons met their deaths. -Further, it is within your province. firstly to determine whether any precautions could or should have been taken by the Police authorities to guard against the possibility of such affair' occurring; and secondly, whether the tragedy could have been avoided by any action on the part of the Police Force in or, near the Lok Ma Chau Station at the time. I think that really covers what is mainly within your province to enquire into.

COUNTY CRICKET » RESULTS.

Northants Surprise Derby.

HAMMOND 8 FOR 25.

London, Yesterday: Three counties were able force victories in the mid-week campaign, the rest of the matches being abandoned or left drawn.

Whysall and Hobbs registered centuries, the former 128 against Kent, and the latter 106 against Sussex. Perhaps the best performance was seen on the College Ground at Clifton, where "Wally" Hammond, the All-England Test player, captured 8 Glamorgan wickets for the cost of 25 runs out of a total of 62. Maurice. Tate, another Test cricketer, took 7 Surrey wickets for 55 runs.

Brooke, the Worcester googly bowler, dismissed 6 Derbyshire batsmen at a low cost, and Juprof Northampton recorded good figures on his own ground.

Below are appended the most noteworthy jeats accomplished in the series of matches just con-

SHANGHAI MURDER TRIAL.

Intention to Kill Admitted.

TWO COOKS' STORIES.

With the presence in court of Mrs. Goddard, the Cantonese wife of the Customs officer who was murdered in his apartment at 859 North Szechuen Road on July 19, by an assailant who attacked him in the dark with a chopper, the trial opened in the Shanghai Special District Court of the deceased man's cook and assistant cook. Several witnesses were called before the case was adjourned for further hearing.

Interest was centred on the first accused, the assistant cook named Peu Tsuh, a youthful Cantonese, who, from the first, declared his of lifting the ball out of sand, and guilt and implicated the cook, Sih

EVERYTHING OF THE BEST.

"He entered the dining room of a Shanghai hotel at tiffin-time last week-a large, well-built and welldressed man nearing the age sometimes called the sunny side of life. Being a stranger he was guided to a comfortable table, swept by a fan, by an attentive Russian assistant head waiter.

Casually he glanced over the balanced menu. Said he:

"How is the porterhouse steak?" The assistant head waiter smiled and dwelt on the loveliness, the tenderness, the beauties of porterhouse steak at the hotel. The stranger was impressed.

"I'll have one," said he, also ordering other viands which stamped him as a man adept at ordering tasty dishes.

hungry. He ate slowly, appreciatively-and well. His meal was topped off with a light drink and a mild eigar.

"Bring the chit," said he, when Swiftly the table boy brought the chit. The stranger barely glanced at it. Money, evidently, was of little importance to him. From his pocket he extracted not money but a gold card. Yes, gold. Silently he tendered it to the boy. The card meant nothing to the boy. Came the assistant head waiter. He examined the card with interest, but was puzzled. The card was taken to the manager of the hotel. The latter recognised it at once. The card. gold mind you, bore the name of the "International Hotel Owners' And Restaurant Men's Association.'

The card, in smaller type, stated that the bearer, Mr. H. G. Goodrich. was an honorary life member of the Association and entitled to dine of the world, at the expense of any other member. The card, it was learned, is the only one in existence and was presented to Mr. Goodrich at an international convention in the United States in recognifion of his service of more than 40 years

The hotel manager, who is a Prisoner went on to relate that member of the Association and also the other accused was the man who of the International Greeters', a Mr. K. Tanaka, Mr. S. Nakao, Mr. world-wide hotel men's organisation, gladly honoured the card.

Drums were beating, bells were ringing, and, in the midst of the wild folk who were dressed up to represent animals, dragons, and birds, danced his Lordship of Misrule-elected as master of mirth during the ribald feasts of the month of January. He wore a green coat spangled with glass, jewels upon his hands and neck, and bells at his knees: his face was painted, and his blue eyes were full of mischief.

Seeing Drucilla standing with her mouth open, he danced up to her and begged her to join his Court.

No doubt the bells had turned Drucilla's head, for the next moment she was dancing away with the Lord of Misrule! 'It was a dreadful thing for a maiden' brought upon her family. Poor Drucilla wept and blushed, but somehow she could not regret that mad race. And, years later, when she was the wife of a rich goldsmith, her great fear was that her own daughters would learn that she had once danced through the streets with the Lord of Misrule.

From the bedroom of the twin boys came sounds of loud weeping and hearty laughter, so father went up to investigate. "What's the matter up here?"

he inquired. The joyous twin indicated his weeping brother. "Nothing," he chuckled; "only nurse has given Alexander two baths and hasn't given me any.

Applique these circles in alternate squares of the design, having blue, yellow, blue, yellow, nlong the lowest line of squares; above that have blue, yellow, blue: above that again, have blue, yellow; and on top have a blue circle. Give these "flowers" black wool centres, buttonhole them round the edges with contrasting coloured wools, work a jade green stem to each, and add green lazy-daisy leaves at the sides. The little diagram explains exactly how these flowers look w. en they're finished.

This design can be adapted to cushion-cover if you prefer, and any colour scheme may, course, be used.

THE WENDY HUT.

BILLIKINS BUBBLES -

-And how's everybody to-day? All fine and gay and cheery? Pets quite well? That's splendid! Because, you see, there has been a 'normous lot of talk about pets in the little old Hut during the last few days. Why? Oh well - that would be telling. wouldn't it?

You must know all our pets almost as well as we know them ourscives. You've met old Bimbo, the fat pony; you've probably bowed to Sprightly, the lazy donkey; and no doubt Guardian, the watch-dog, has made you shake hands with him before this. Then, of course, there is Tinker - the black cat, I mean, not our very own fairy-sort-oj-girl, Tinker Bell; and there are hundreds of chirpy, fluttery, altogether adorable wee birds.

So you can quite understand that the Hut Folk are never at a loss for something to talk about, and - something to do! - Wendy says that almost every letter she receives from Tinkites has something in it about the family pet, and Tink declares that these letters are the nicest of all to have. Cheerio, Billikins.

The Great Heritage of Civilisation.

I"Human History." by G. Elliot Smith: Jonathan Cape, Ltd.; 21/- nett.]

Every reader of anthropology knows the name of Prof. G. Elliot Smith and has followed the develapment of his theory with interest. A fresh work from his pen is always an attraction-and this volume is no exception.

Most of my renders will remember when "The Evolution of the Dragon" first, appeared, and the scathing review with which it was greeted in one of the current weeklies-the 'Saturday Review' if my memory does not play me

This volume should not be 'so hardly treated as its predecessor. For one thing, Prof. Elliot Smith's views are better known, and have gradually gained a much larger circle of adherents. Then, too, if we may say so this book is more systematic and consistent than 'the Evolution of the Dragon.'-· Possibly this is due to the fact that the views themselves have become more crystallised in Prof. Smith's own mind. Tientsin, July 22. Mr. Sun Chiu-lu, who recently eturned from Hong Kong, where he had gone as a Yen Hsi-shan delegate, said in an interview on Sunday that Mr. Wang would not accept the Chairmanship of the proposed new Government but would do his best to assist in the reorganization of the Kuomintang. Mr. Wang indicated to Mr. Sun that his attitude in regard to the political situation had been made clear in his circular telegram of June 1, that is, he favours the convocation of the Third 'National Party Congress to settle party affairs and a Citizens' Conference to tackle outstanding national affairs. Mr. Sun also revealed that during the last two months Nanking had made repeated attempts try. to effect a reconciliation with Mr. Wang, but without avail, as Mr. Wang persistently refused to receive emissaries sent from Nan-
